---

THE object of this book is to afford to Merchants, Bankers, and others granting credits, a ready and easy reference as to the Capital and Mercantile Standing of parties with whom they may have transactions. The information which it contains is the result, in a very condensed form, of years of observation, of close enquiry at an immense number of sources, in every locality, and of a careful consideration of all the facts thus accumulated.

The general reliability of the information furnished by the MERCANTILE AGENCY has its best guarantee in the fact that, during a period of over twenty years, it has enjoyed the confidence of a large majority of the business community ; and that at present a larger number of enquiries are made, and a greater reliance placed on its reports, than ever before. On these reports, closely revised by our own travelling agents, the within estimates of capital and credit are based. Without pretending to have reached the greatest accuracy, it is therefore believed that these ratings will be found generally correct ; and though mistakes and misapprehensions must occur in a work of such magnitude and of such a character, the greatest care has been taken to avoid the one and to be free from the other.

It would be improper to expect that on these ratings alone, credit transactions might in all cases be with perfect security based. This is but one source among many others, which it is the privilege, if not the duty, of every grantor of credit to consult. Bad debts can hardly be avoided, even with the aid of every facility; but it is obvious that losses of this character are much more certain without these aids. In this connection, we wish it understood that the publication of the Reference Book is not intended to supersede the system of furnishing detailed reports at our offices. On the contrary, we wish to urge upon our subscribers the desirability of a direct resort to our records for particulars. Our arrangements are now very complete for a frequent and thorough revision of our reports, and we shall be happy to afford our patrons all the advantages arising therefrom.

R. G. DUN & CO.,

E. WIMAN,

Proprietors.

General Manager for Canada.
